Walter James Wilcox

JUN 16, 1960 - SEP 25, 2013

Walter James Wilcox, a man that every man should aspire to be. Born June 16, 1960, in San Francisco during an era of love and acceptance, he lived those philosophies everyday of his life. I have never known another person more generous and loving than my dad, Walter Wilcox. Everyone he met was his friend and he treated his friends like family. Walter was a wonderful and loving father who put himself aside to ensure his children were raised with all of the love and care that a father can give to his children. A father eventually gets the privilege of becoming a grandfather. Walter respected and loved that privilege, taking every moment he spent with his grandson and granddaughters and making them the greatest and happiest memories. Walter was an artist all of his life, his work subtly capturing the soul of humankind. He enjoyed wandering around town and immersing himself in the beautiful diversities of the people around him. His perpetual happiness and good nature were impossible not to feel when you were around him. We will always know that Walter James Wilcox loved each of us. His family and friends will remember him lovingly.

This is so beautiful and so true. We will miss you so deeply, papa Walt! He lit up our lives in an unforgettable way. We will cherish the loving memories we were so fortunate to have with him as treasured gifts. Our lives are more full of wisdom, love, happiness, laughter and light because of Walt. Can't wait to see you again one day, our beloved father, friend and papa. Save a place for all of us.
