Yolandita, how seet it was hear you on the phone, how sweet and sincere were your hugs of friendship! I cry because a sweet soul has left this earth, but I can imagine how happy our Father in Heaven must be to receive you after fighting the good battle and keeping your faith.

Dear Sammy & Jack: My name is Gabriel Casanovas; I have worked with Yoli, as I called her, as a translator for the Church. I live in Argentina, and although I never met Yoli in person, we were good friends. I am so sorry for your loss! Today, as I was translating, I have found a prayer from President Hinckley, which made me think of Yolanda: "Lord, when we walk in the valley of the shadow of death, give us faith to smile through our tears, knowing that it is all part of the eternal plan of a loving Father, that as we cross the threshold from this life we enter another more glorious, and that through the atonement of the Son of God all shall rise from the grave and the faithful shall go on to exaltation." Please, know that she will be remembered by her fellow translators as the extraordinary person she is. Sincerely, Gabi.
