I got so many stories. I don't even know where to begin with This guy and how met. I think it was at Walmart Distribution in hurricane utah where I immediately felt the presence of good spirit..I didn't know him at the time but I knew right away he'd be my friend to the end.Me and kids all were very blessed to be around Uncle louie ask we Polynesians call those who are older than us out of respect Uncle or aunty..And so working with louie was a freaking blast from the past cuz anytime we saw each other (and was usually everyday) when we saw each other it was like high school all over again except we never went to the same high school 🤔.. but it almost seemed like we knew each other all of lives.Me and kids got fired and louie decided to tag along and so how about this for laughs,We got fired at Walmart DC just to work at the Washington Walmart for the Christmas rush. Anyhow I recalled my dude clocking in for one hour than straight taking off and coming bacc just to clock out..Man this guy always had jokes and a big infectious smile..(Tears) that lit up the whole room..We came together again after the season was over at Walmart and we all got hired up at RS Poles where I got to meet my other buddy's Rob ,jj and jjz wife who is currently not doing to good like many I'm sure of it.. We would all work our shifts and me,Rob and louie ended all staying on the same shifts for the most part. Never failed like clock work when I needed a hand cuz my dumb ass left the keys in my brown truck and Louie would volunteer to help me break into my truck and he did it with that infectious smile and said it's all good uce I got you my Brotha Tears 😭 Man I go on for days talking about this guy's but it would not be fair for others cuz I'm positive they got some funny ass shot about my Brotha louie..I was a forklift operator for RS polls and str8 got fired cuz I was doing donuts 🤪 but before I got fired I remember a time my Brotha and were cruising on the big lift transporting the polls outside and he ran up and said a UCE let's ride homie and so we went out to the yard and said make sure I don't I don't fly uCe and I said don't trip CuH ..I got you homie.it was like 2 kids on the playground at recess ... I'm freaky going to miss you uce.. Till the wheels fall off uCe..!ll Cee on the side my friend, my brother, my USOFOLIFE..TEARS..
