Minsoo Oh

MAY 16, 1973 - MAR 17, 2024

In profound sorrow, we bid farewell to Minsoo, a remarkable soul whose brave fight against lung cancer touched the lives of many. His unwavering love and devotion to his wife, EunJung, and their cherished daughters, Erin and Ashley, were the cornerstones of his existence. Through every trial, Minsoo's resilience and compassion shone brightly, illuminating the path for those around him.

Though his physical presence may no longer grace our lives, the essence of Minsoo's spirit will forever dwell in the memories we hold dear. His laughter, his wisdom, and his unwavering love will continue to echo in the hearts of all who were fortunate enough to know him.

As we mourn the loss of a beloved husband, father, and friend, let us also celebrate the profound impact Minsoo had on each of us. In his honor, may we find solace in the cherished moments shared, and may his legacy of love and courage guide us through the darkest of days.

Rest peacefully, dear Minsoo, knowing that your light will forever shine brightly in our hearts.

I really enjoyed working with Minsoo for the past few years. He was smart, dependable, funny and positive. He was a patient teacher and helped me learn the products that we supported together. He would often speak to me about his loving wife and two daughters. He was so proud of his family! I will miss his friendship. I always loved his cartoon profile picture on slack so I'm sharing it here. Sending love and prayers to all who miss him!

Wow. Minsoo is/was the best. We worked together for several years but as friends who messed around at the office and went to lunch frequently. He's a bright, warm, caring, funny, down-to-earth guy who always talked about his family. We joked about opening a restaurant someday just because it would be fun to name it Minsooshi.)) None of us gets out of this alive; it brings sadness to see the good ones go too soon, but happiness and hope that we will see each other again, Minsoo.

I did not have the opportunity to work directly with Minsoo, but was able to speak with him on several occasions at work. He was a remarkably kind man who was present in the moment. I hope the precious moments you had with Minsoo stays with you and brings you comfort, strength, and joy.

Minsoo was a light to others. People naturally gravitated towards him because of his kindness, generosity, and sense of humor. He loved his family deeply and was most worried about them and their well-being even while he was so ill himself. I will cherish our friendship forever and always remember your smile. Till we meet again be safe my brother, neighbor, and friend. We will make sure EunJung, Erin, and Ashley get all the support and love they need here. Sincerely- John Balderree & Family
