Matthew Melvin Luke

OCT 26, 1981 - NOV 25, 2025

Matthew (Matt) Melvin Luke, 44 of West Valley Utah, passed away on November 25, 2025. True to his adventurous spirit, Matt left this world the way he cherished most—on two wheels. He was born on October 26, 1981, in Provo Utah, to Boyd and Pam Luke, Matt’s journey was marked by warmth, generosity, and an enduring spirit for life.

Matt was raised in Lehi Utah where he made many friends and graduated from Lehi High School. Matt was a very hard worker and was quick to pick up any trade that he worked in. His natural curiosity led him to tinker, and he could fix almost anything. Matt went on to earn his Electrical Contractors license, he started and ran his own Electrical Business, Hole Shot Electric. Through his work and business, he met incredible people and built lasting friendships. He was always willing to go the extra mile and never shied away from difficult jobs. Several times he would do electrical work for people, and they would call him to do other jobs that they needed. He had a special way of caring for people; he had several elderly customers who would call him to come and help them out with regular tasks. He always made time for others and found genuine happiness in helping those around him.

From an early age Matt loved the outdoors, hunting, fishing, camping, horseback riding, exploring, and riding anything he could drive. He was always down for an adventure and would make any situation better by just being there. Matt would do anything for anyone, he loved to use his skills to help anyone who needed it whether they knew him well or not, he would step up and do whatever was needed. Matt had a special way of making you feel seen and of always being in the moment with you. Matt had the biggest heart, and he wore it on his face in the form of a huge, beautiful smile that he freely shared. He loved to laugh and joke around and had a knack for keeping things light. Matt was incapable of holding a grudge, he could say his peace and move on, no hard feelings. The world was a better place because of him.

I remember back when Matt was just a little kid when he just wanted to be around his older brother and he would try to do anything to impress JD. He would get on his BMX bike and he was jumping and doing tricks that most of the older kids wouldn't even attempt and he would do them with ease and even way back then he was one of the most humble kids around and some things never change cause he grew up to be one of the most humble guys I've ever met!!! Matt you are going to be missed everyday, try and save me a spot anywhere near you, rest in peace brother we'll see you soon!!!

We were either in high school or right after, but there was a fire burning up in the hills by Alpine. Me and Matt went up at night time in my red ford ranger and parked close by to watched the fire burn while eating sunflower seeds. This was one of the nights Bon Jovi started playing on the radio and Matt looked over at me and said "sounds like Bon Jovi". This is when it became an official quote. It wasn't just what he said that we both remember. It's how he said it. It was a happy surprise is how I'd explain it. Throughout the last 20-25 years every time Bon Jovi comes on I instinctively say "sounds like Bon Jovi" the way he did. In memory of Matt play some Bon Jovi.

Love ya Matt! Soo many good memories hanging out with my buddy Matt after meeting him & JD in Maui. Lots of late nights hunting rabbits out west and talking about life! Our goose hunting trip to Omaha, and our fishing trip to Alaska where we just drove our little boat around exploring rather than fishing. Matty was always there to help if I ever needed a hand or give me some electrical advice when I was building my houses. Godspeed my brotha on your next adventure!

Me and Matt have been best friends For about the last 15 years . More like bothers really . i have so many memories of Matt i could write a book just about him . And what a great man he was . I have seen him do so many kinds things for other people with nothing in return . He had the biggest Heart out of anyone i have ever met . If you were lucky enough to be his friend He would give you the shirt off his back . And countless times he would just pull over if someone was stranded . I have seen him save more than 1 life right in front of my eyes . He always ran towards danger never away from it . One Thing we talked about a lot was Death and life . And How it all works . Matt was such a spiritual guy . You would never know With a chew in and smoking a cigarette he would defend God and Jesus christ in all accounts. He Was so smart and knew his facts when he told you something was real he had such conviction that you couldn't help but believe him . I have spent so many hours crying with Matt about sad things about happy things . He had the most amazing spirit about him if he would ever really let you see it . He was also the most stubborn person i have ever met . Matt wanted to do everything on his terms always . And that made him a fighter he never gave up because he would always figure out a way to get the job or project done is all aspects of his life . He has taught me so much . All the Electrical i know is from Matt . And my entire life really has been based around his advice . I looked up to him like no one i have ever before . He knew how to give the best advice and always right when you needed to hear what he had to say . He was always So in tune . He has made me into the man i am today . Matt could talk to anyone anytime and always make a new friend he related to people like i have never seen . He loved history and finding out the truth about things . Everything he did he went all in . I loved that about him . he rarely got scared about anything and was always down to be the first thing to try the most dangerous things . He Has such great morals And would always do the right thing for the right reason even when no one was looking . I could go on for days about his qualities they are endless . And the memories me and him have had . I am heartbroken our time was cut short . But i know for a fact I will see him again . And Hug him and tell him how much i love him and i am so grateful for his friendship in my life And for always being there for me when i needed it the most . But until then i will think of him daily and keep his words and spirit with me constantly. Matt i love you brother until we meet again ❤️

Oh Boy, I have so many good memories with Matt it's hard to pick the best one because so many of them are great! But, I do have one that sticks out because of the effect and impact I know it had on Matt and myself. We shared a lot Matt and I. The first time I left Utah and sold everything I couldn't take with me, I gave to Matt.

From then on Matt was like a brother to me. When he and JD moved to Hawaii, and JD came home, Matt called and asked if I wanted to move out there and work with him. I did for almost a year. I told him I was missing out on my daughter's life back home in Utah, or I would have stayed out there with him forever. Maui was a paradise where I was able to spend time with Matt. But the most memorable time was years later when we would search for answers in the mountains of Utah for things that we saw that weren't able to be explained in books. We had many weekends spent riding motorcycles and hiking through different parts of Utah after spending hours and hours on Google Earth locating the perfect places to go each time. This particular time we chose to go to Newspaper Rock, Bears Ears, and Wilson's Hole in the Rock, all south of Moab. There was a spiritual connection that was made that trip that gave us each a renewed testimony of the things we had been taught about the ancestors of this land. And our genealogy going all the way back to Moses. We were witnesses to things that have been tattooed into the rocks that tell the stories that were meant to be seen. They were and are still some of the most sacred days of my life. Matt and I were there together. My Brother. We have miles and memories that would go on and on. As does his bother JD. He has been a friend of mine since Jr. High when we spent hours and hours on the wrestling mat. If it wasn't for JD, I may never have known Matt. They both are brothers of mine forever. The first time I ran away from home I was taken in by JD and his brother Matt. They let me stay in there dad's camper in their back yard until one day Boyd came a knocking. The times we had are memories I will never forget.

My Uncle Matt was quite the character in all the best ways!! You could always tell when Matt showed up to a family events because you could always hear his laugh from across the room. That laugh will never leave our hearts and our memories.

It's so hard to share just one memory of Matt! We shared a lot of years, love, tears, and laughter together! He's the one person who could frustrate you so badly and then snap you out of it by making you laugh uncontrollably. I'm grateful I had him in my life and I know he's looking down and laughing that we're all crying about him being gone

Matt was always so funny. Such a happy man. Always had me laughing. "Hey Val want a stinker (a cigarette of course). It always made me smile. Oh yes and if you want to come in the house it's Ass against the Glass. I'm not sure if that was a thing but he sure had me going. I've never met a more humble soul as Matt Until I met his brother JD. Matt will be missed in so many ways. The world lost an amazing man. And the Heavens are Blessed. Until we can all play together again Matt RIP. Love You Forever Bro

I remember hanging out with you, Stacie, and the kids at a barbecue at your house. You whipped out a souped up RC Car that ripped across the yard at what felt like warp speed. The kids thought it was so funny. You were a good man. Always so kind and welcoming. Rest easy.
