“ I was 10 years old when Jean graduated from High School. I remember how beautiful she was, and so COOL when we would visit. She was friendly and it wasn't below her dignity to talk with a child. One day I saw a stuffed cow on her bed, and loved it. It had flowers by the ears, and a little cow bell. On Christmas, Santa brought me an identical cow! My mother must have known how I loved it. Mostly, I was thrilled to have something like Jean's. I loved how she loved Laurel (my aunt who lived with us since her mother, my grandmother died (age 12). They were always close, and shared such fun conversations. She even spoke at Laurel's funeral. Jean, in later years, before my parents died, presented them with a large, beautiful picture. It was a hand sketched portrait of them, which stayed in their hallway for years. The picture still remains in my family, and we consider it a treasure. God bless you Jean for your contribution to me, and my family!
