“Your excitement over a TV wall mount was better than a kid on Christmas, or the time Carson yelled MOUSE and you were running around trying to shoot the mouse with a pellet gun lol. All of the heated arguments and debates over the dumbest things but so necessary because we both insist on being right. You took me and my husband in at the lowest point in our lives and its thanks to you that we made it through that trial and are where we are today, you are the best thing that has ever happened to my best friend, she loves you so much. and I promise I will fight by her side to make sure her and Carson are able to have the life you want for them. until we meet again my friend

“ All the hooligans of the neighborhood (you know who you are) playing and acting like we were the ninja turtles. Pretty sure Steve was always Raphael. We even made the Sais.
So many more fun memories!

“ I always remember visiting your family as a child and since Steve and I were only 2 years apart, I would always end up watching him play video games and he'd let me play too, which was always embarrassing:). I use to be in awe of his skills! And we always enjoyed watching Simpsons with him too. Love you all and so sorry he is gone so young.

“ One of my memories of Steve is in 9th grade we saw some hair clippers in his house and decided it would be a good idea to buzz our heads. He made me go first and after he saw what I looked like he no longer wanted to buzz his head. So I ran to his room and grabbed his lava lamp and told I would break it if he didn't buzz his head too. He then quickly gave himself a buzz too. Our haircuts were awful but it is a memory I will cherish.
